Time keeps on slipping into the future. When mistakes you can't undo stand still you may as well like Ike. Lyndon Baines Johnson but you also have to be prepared for, Whatever happens just to come to an end remember us

12/30/76

Dear Rocka,

This picture will be the last one I'll send to you. I'm not sure where I'll be next year, but I'll write. Then we can keep in touch. I have enjoyed training you.

Love,

O! if this were seen
The happiest youth, viewing his progress through
What perils past, what crosses to ensue;
Would shut the book, and sit him down and die.

Academics

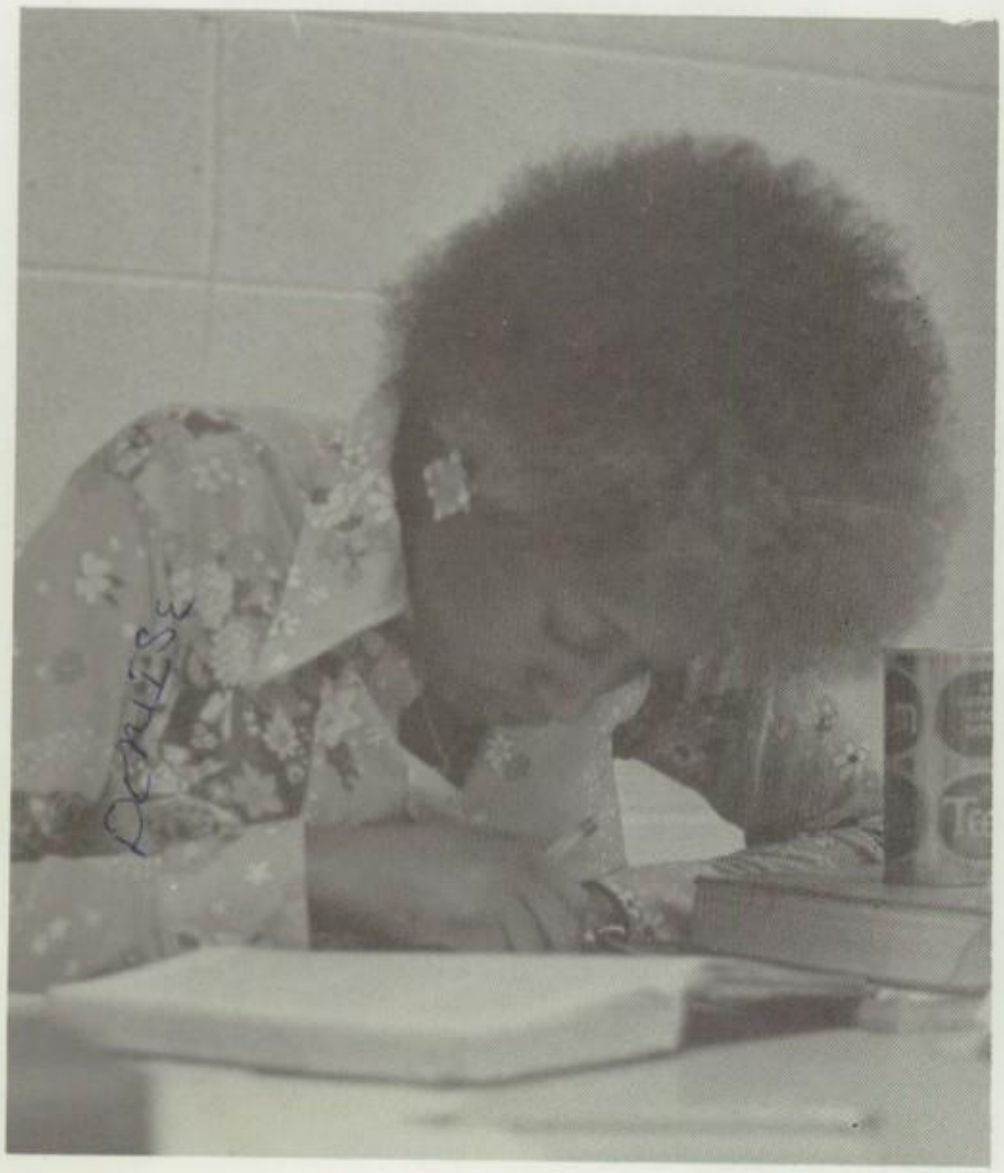
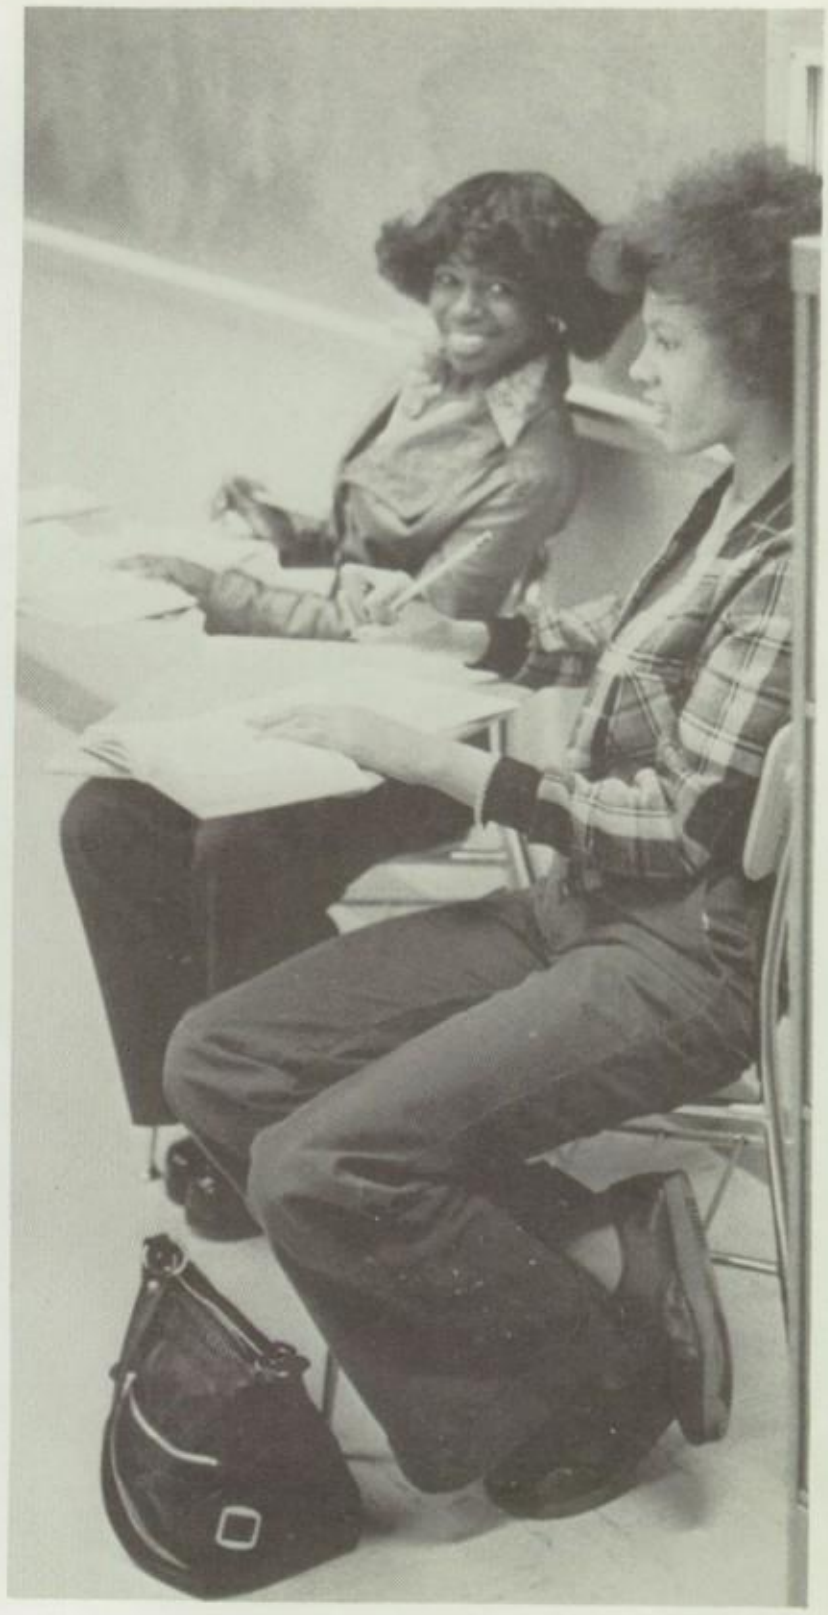
Helen Hoyt was the English department chairman. All first semester sophomores selected one of three courses: Successful Writing, Practical English or Effective English.

Journalism, drama, literature as well as writing courses all reflected the "76" spirit. The Expedition staff has striven to coordinate the bicentennial and the Wildcat themes. Northwestern graduates have been honored in a special section of the EXPEDITION yearbook.

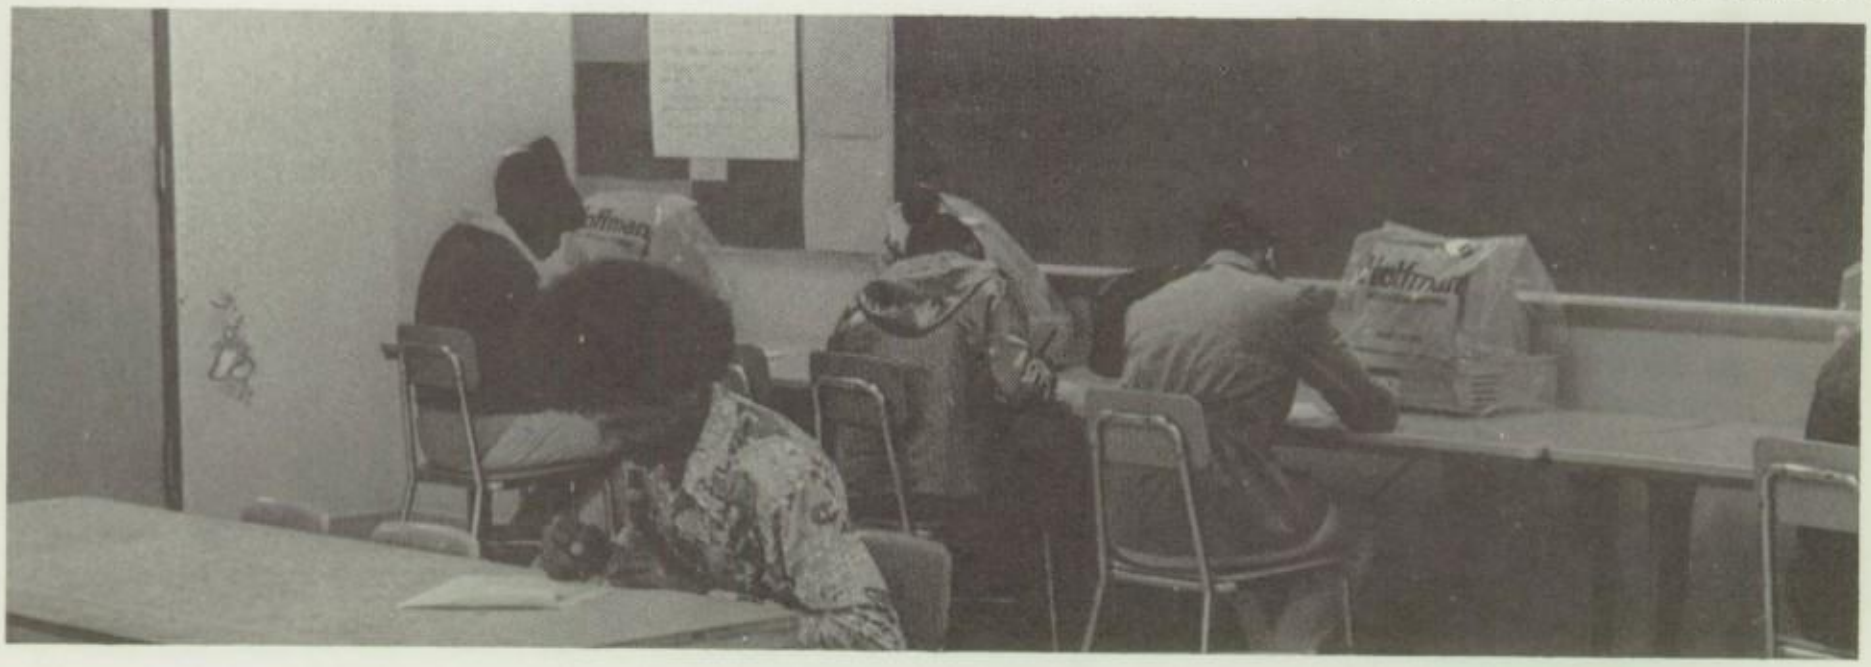
Frank Scott was a welcome addition to the English department with his innovation of play writing in his classes in Black Visions.



English is my number one hobby.



Honey, who are you asking? I don't know.



Oh, we're busy all the time!

Work Is Not All English Offers

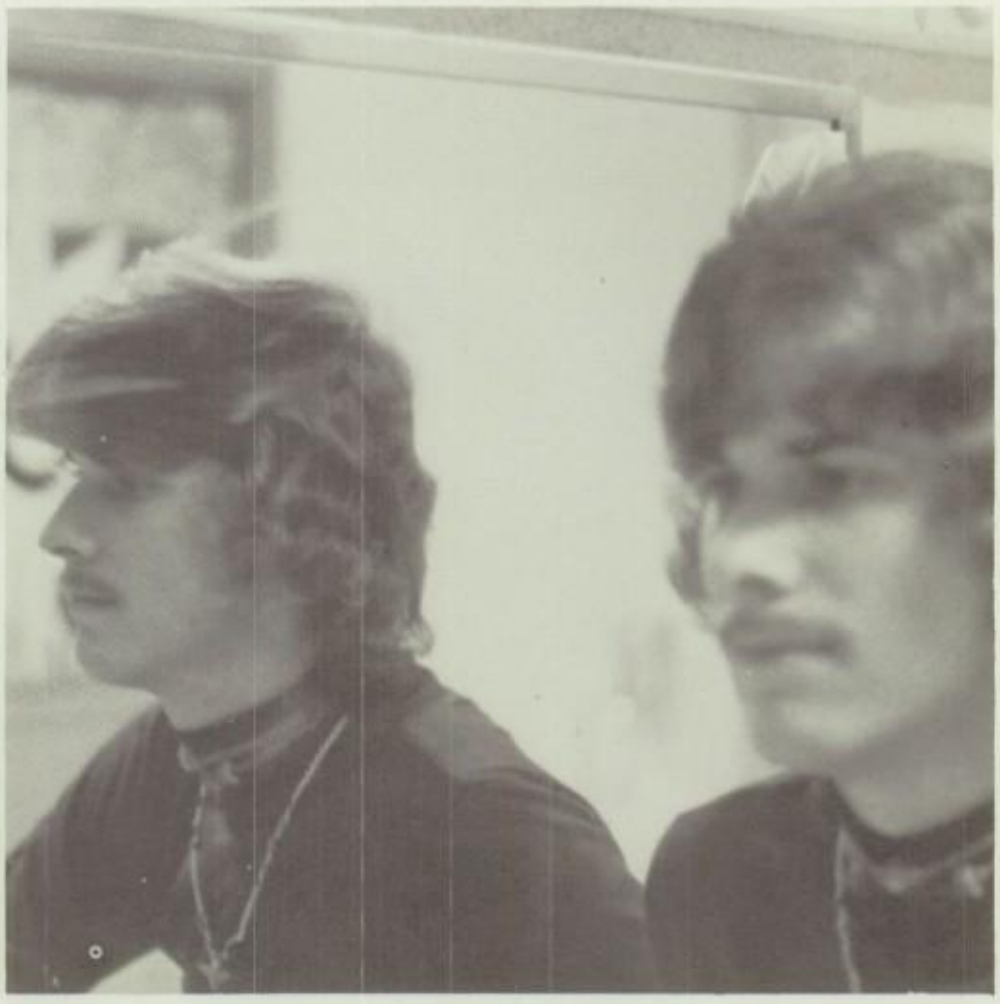
English is very interesting to us.

You just gotta be kidding.

"Whose working? I'm just fooling."



Oh, my what a guy.

Math Has Its Angles Squared

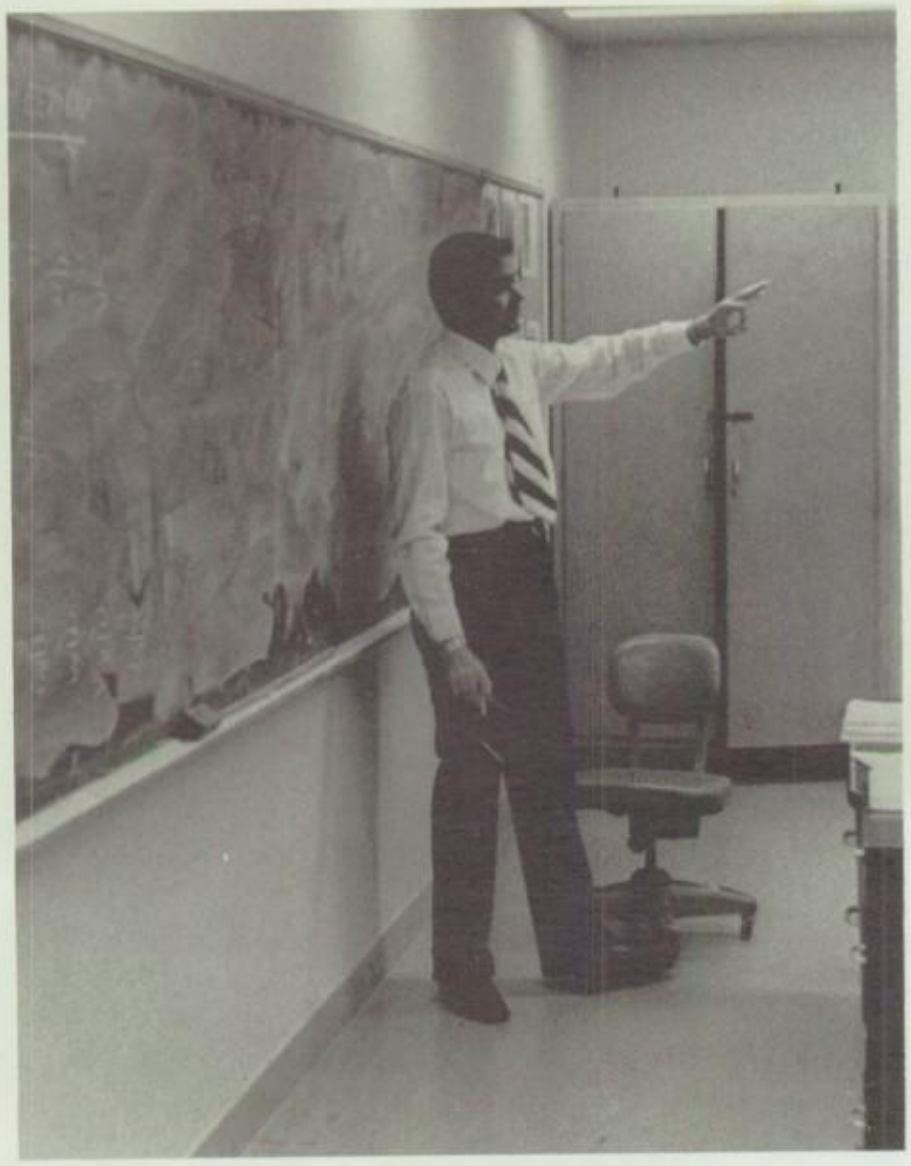
Students enjoy a laugh or two, I wonder what's so funny?

Communication is vital to Rolonda Scott.

Mrs. Pauline explains to her student very carefully.



Mr. Ryan is one of the many outstanding math teachers.

Mrs. Pauline has her class on the go at all times.

Roosevelt Tardy led the Math Department. A new course called Title One was added to the curriculum. The students worked at their own speed. Students eligible for this course were drawn from the Junior High Schools which offered this program. Teachers felt this was an improvement to the Math program.

Northwestern continued to offer a wide choice of math courses including: Foundation Math, Geometry, Trigonometry, Consumer Math and Computer Math.

Two new full-time teachers joined the staff. They were George Dedrick, Virginia Rickey and Linda Gilleylen shared her time with the English department. She taught two classes in Foundations of Math.

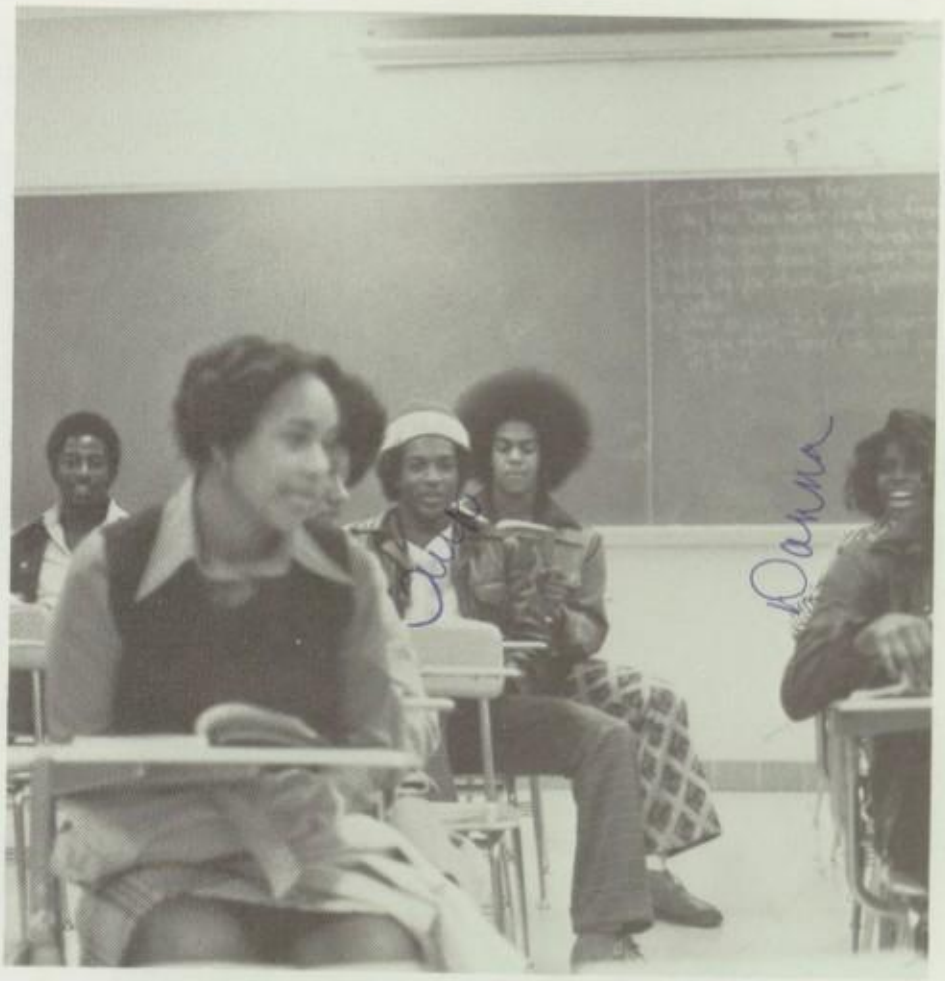
Most of our N.W. students enjoy working and answering questions.

Gloria Allen is taking a test for math. I hope she passes.

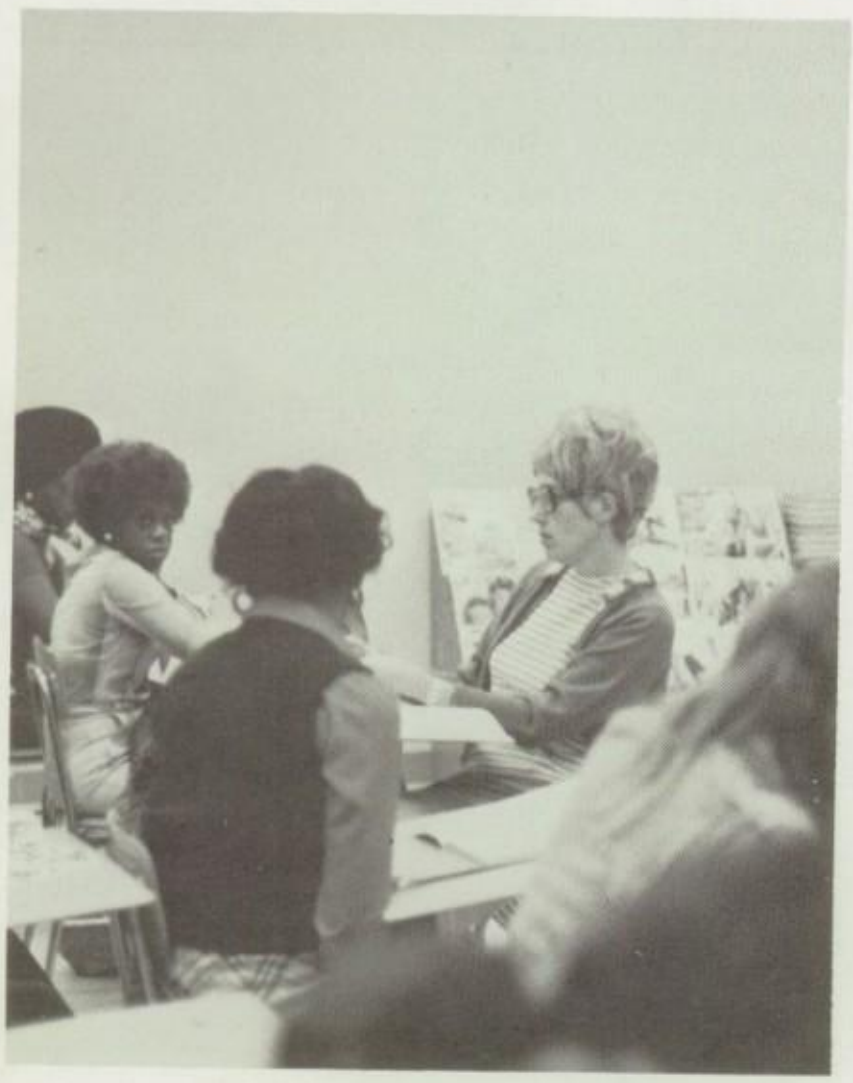
Department chairman JoAnn Hollar became Mrs. Wilson the summer of '75.

The foreign Language department took a giant step in the teaching of French and Spanish with the introduction of electronic equipment using tape recorders to record their voices as they pronounced foreign words. Earphones and speakers were used to listen to their tapes.

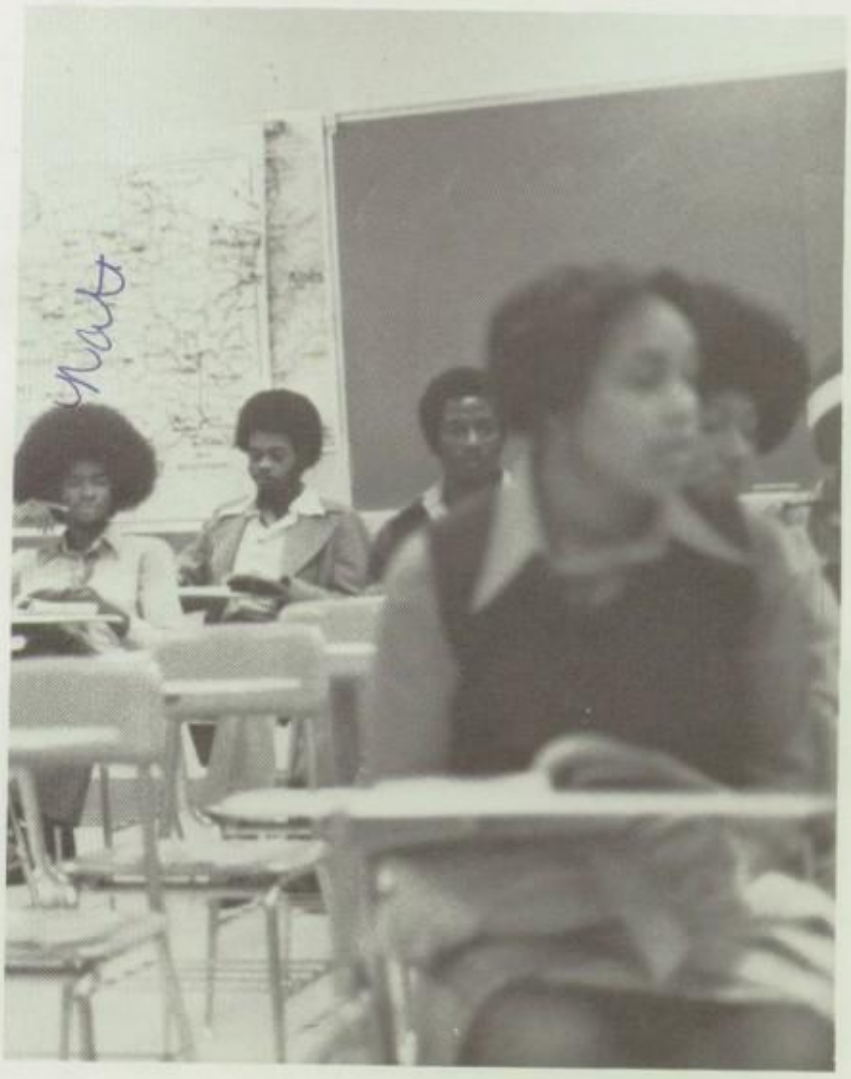
The foreign language students again will be given the opportunity to travel abroad in the summer of '76. They will visit Spain and France enriching their knowledge and understanding of the people whose language they have studied.



Foreign Language is interesting to this group of people.



Parlez-Vous Francais means do you speak French.



I speak it the best I can.

Students Crowd Foreign Lanuage

Mary McIntry writes her notes down carefully in home economics.

Ann McCabe headed the Home Economics department. The basic fundamentals of homemaking, health care, and cooking and sewing formed the nucleus of the Home Economic department.

To add variety to the cooking classes, foreign dishes were prepared. Italian, Spanish, French and Chinese delicacies were enjoyed by both young men and young ladies in these classes.

Home Ec. Students Are Cooking?

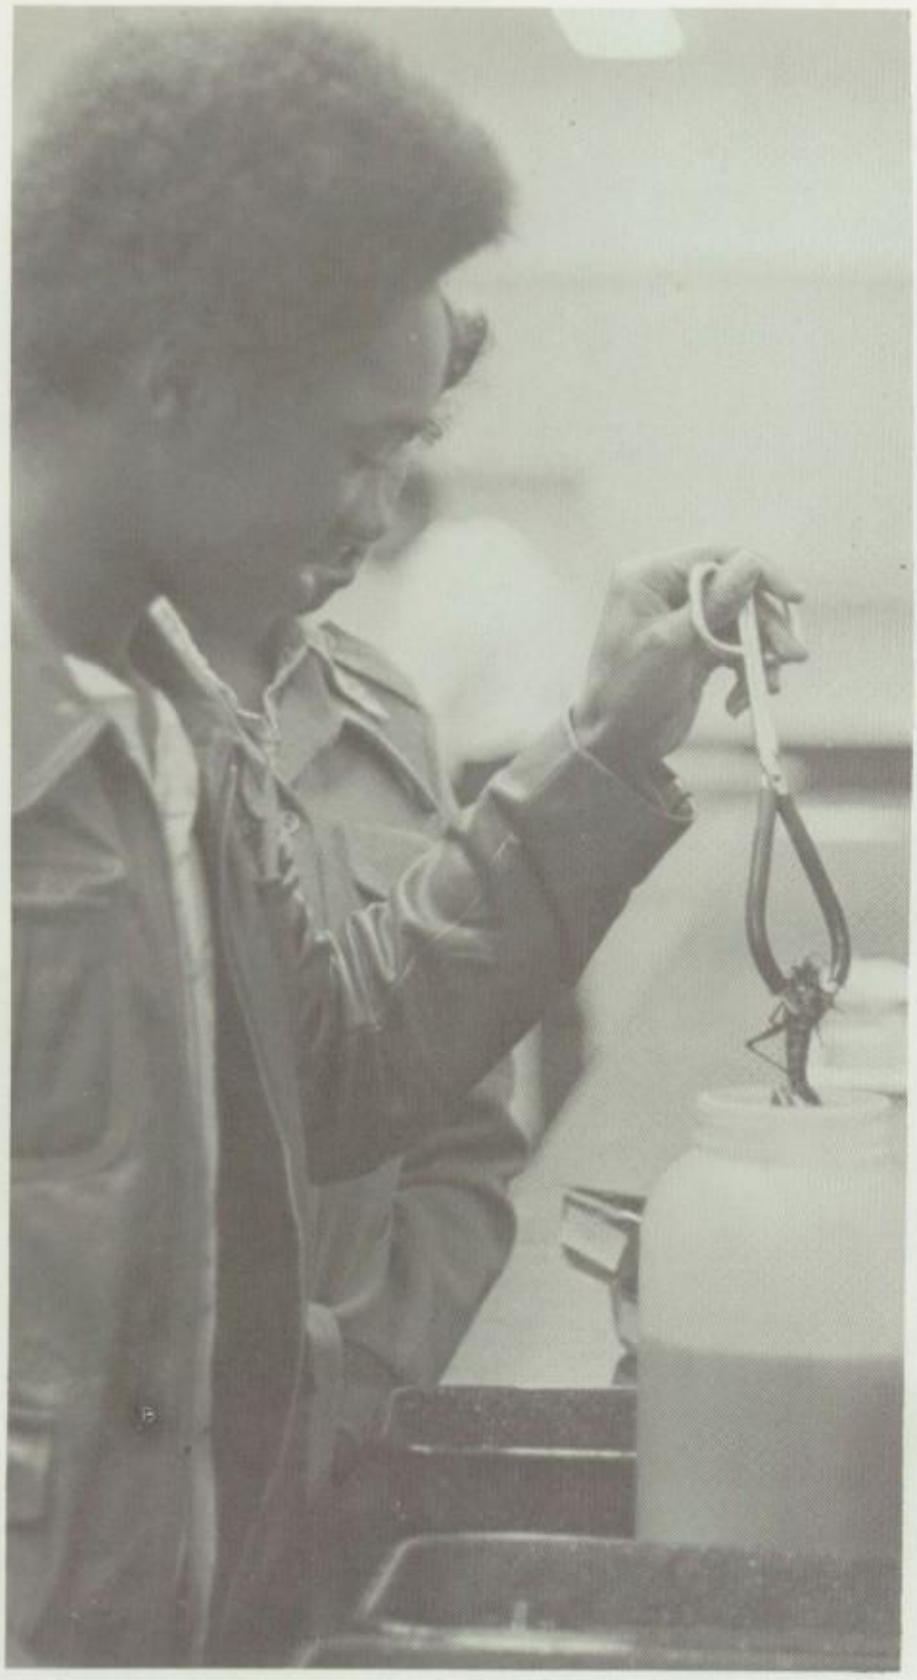
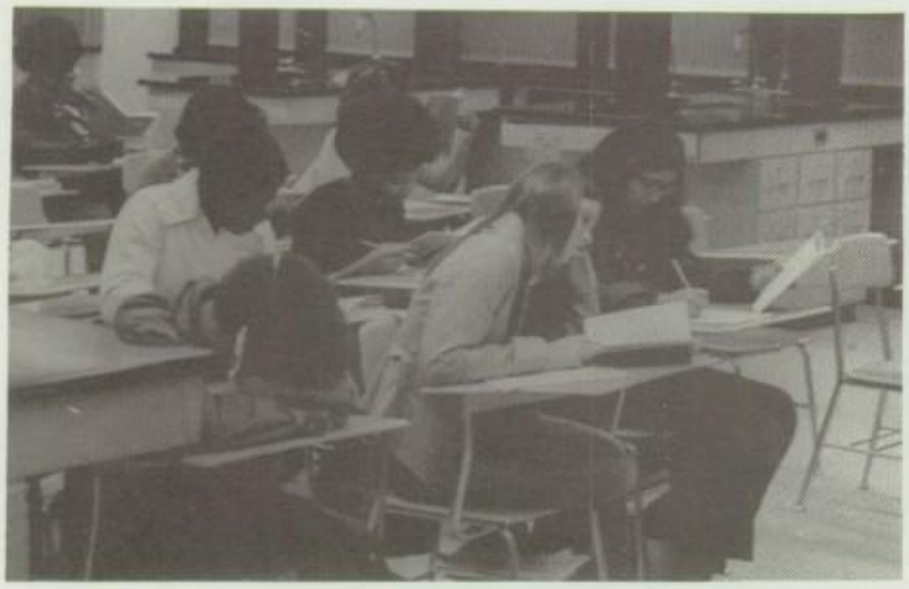
Michael Johnson and away we go.

The Home Economics class is always clean. They wash the dishes after they cook.

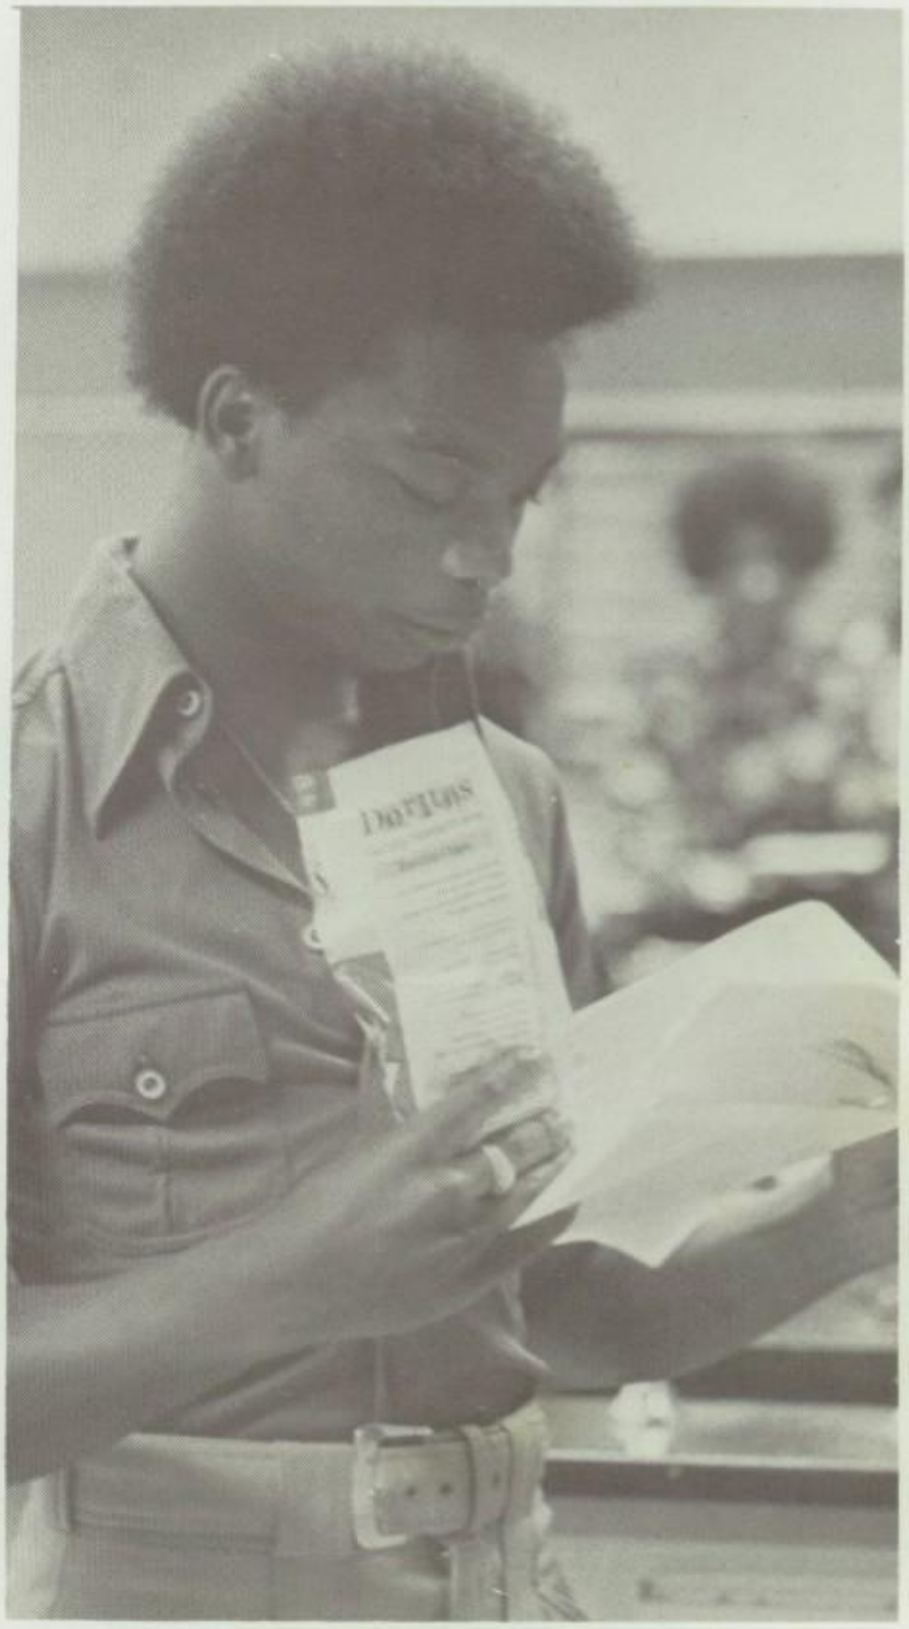


Bobby Williams has fun and trouble trying for Herbie the grasshopper.

In chemistry we learn to weigh air and liquid.



All work and no play. When you have no work, you can sleep.



I wonder why he gave this back, I know it's right.

Team Teaching Effective

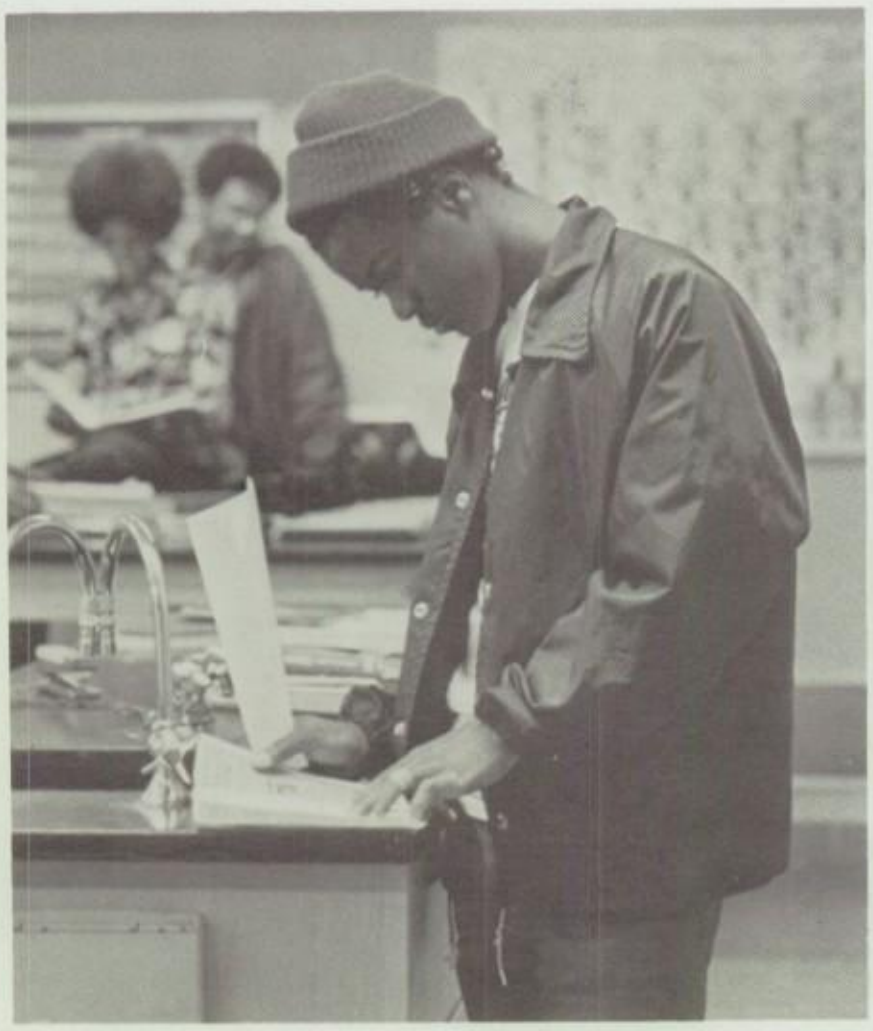
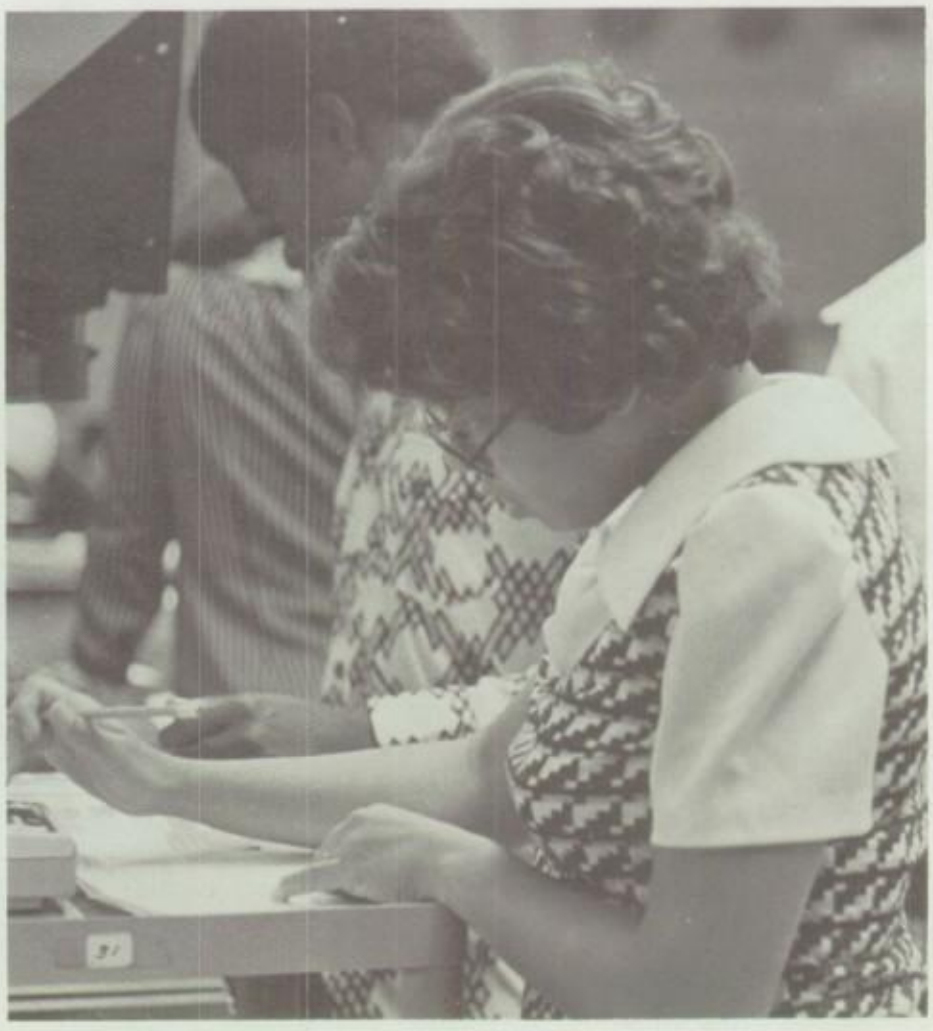
Hi, I'm Herbie the grasshopper. I guess you're wondering what I'm doing here. Well so am I.

Charles Pennock led the Science department. Physics classes were taught utilizing team teaching techniques. Robert Gerow, Charles Pennock and Robert Dickenson felt these methods added variety to their classes.

Students worked at their own speed in biology classes while chemistry students enjoyed experimentation in lab sessions.



Now I know I just saw you in here a few minutes ago.



Alright now Calculator, you better stop playing around. I have work to get done.

Music Is Instep With The Day

Robert Semmes again led the music department. The marching band sold tacos to raise money for new uniforms. Pom-pom girls added color and excitement to the football games.

Many types of music from classical and ballet to modern were taught in all areas of the department.

The Choir presented a Bicentennial program.

Emanuel Willis listens while Robert Harriston plucks.

Cynthia Williams struts.

Mr. Robart pauses to listen as Ruth Randall and Emanuel play.

The Marching Band adds color to football games.

Art Exhibits Creativity

The Art department was led by Nate Hendricks. Fascinating projects working with clay, paint and charcoal were enjoyed by students.

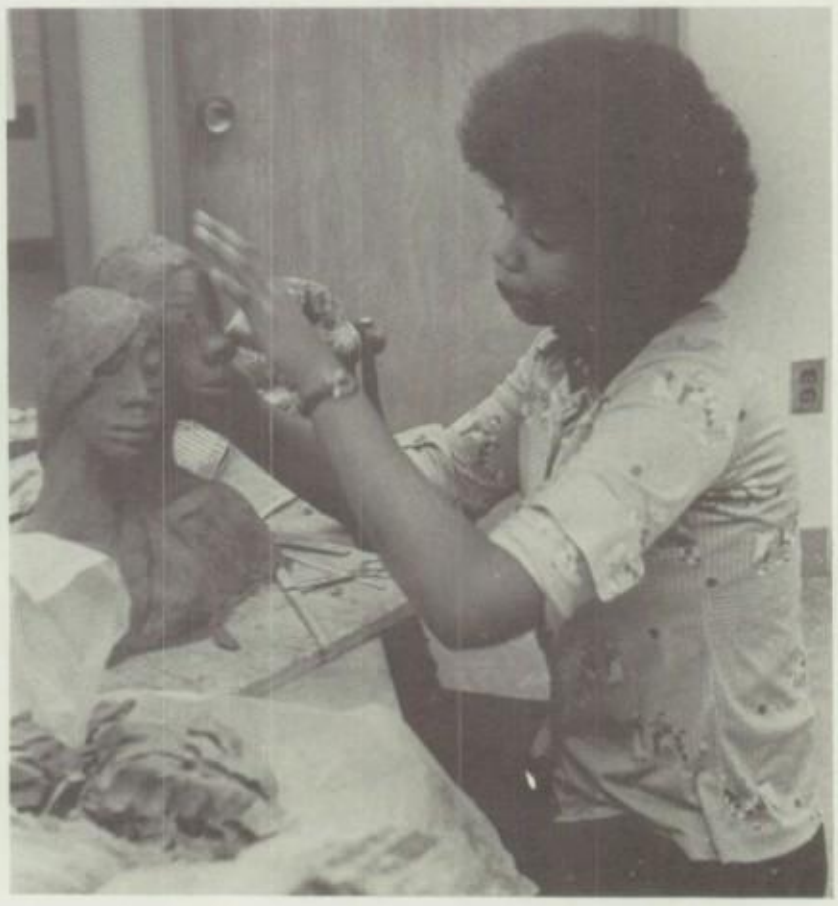
Keno Conners, Joey Harper, Cynthia Wilbon, Gary Manuel, Chris Smart are just some of the few young artists whose work is displayed throughout "NORTHWESTERN'S" corridors.

Willie Donahue, one of the two art teachers at Northwestern, also added to some of the talent which was seen by many.

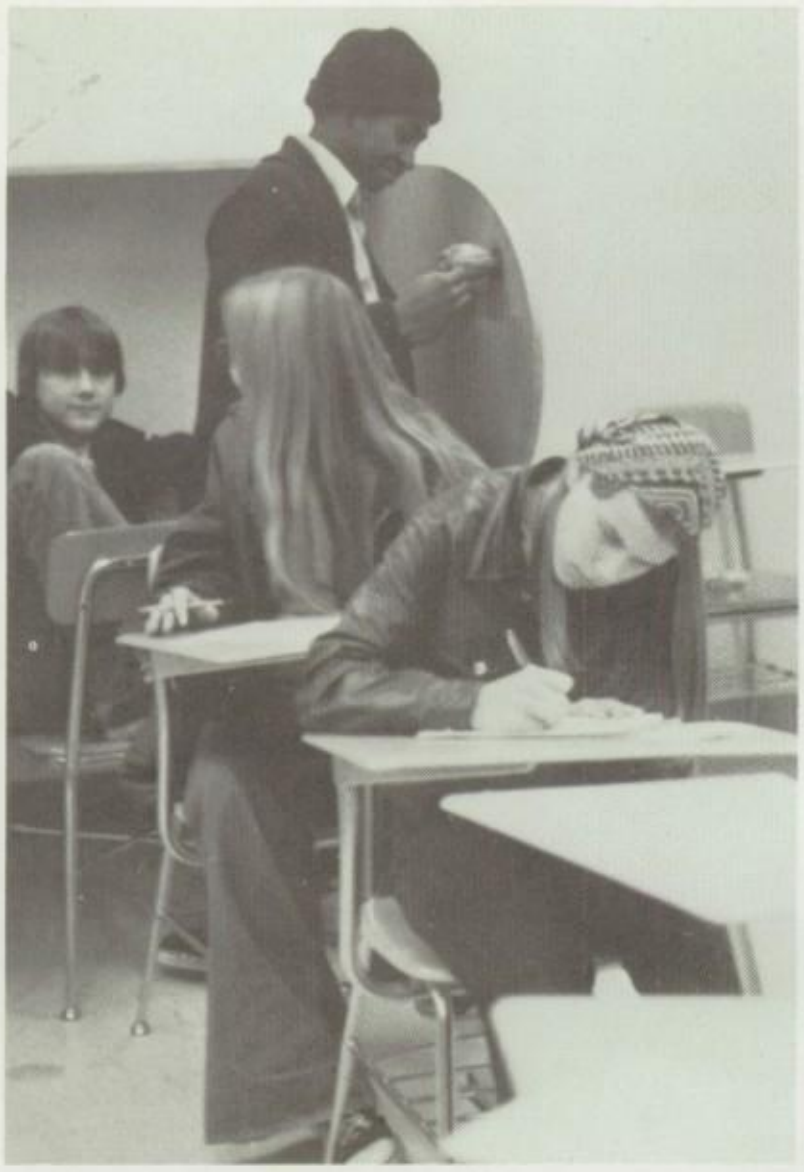
The hands of Chris Smart are very fantastic when it's art.

Gary Manuel never stops his hands when it's clay.

Keno Conner and Joey Harper never stopped painting.



Cynthia Wilbon sculptures carefully.

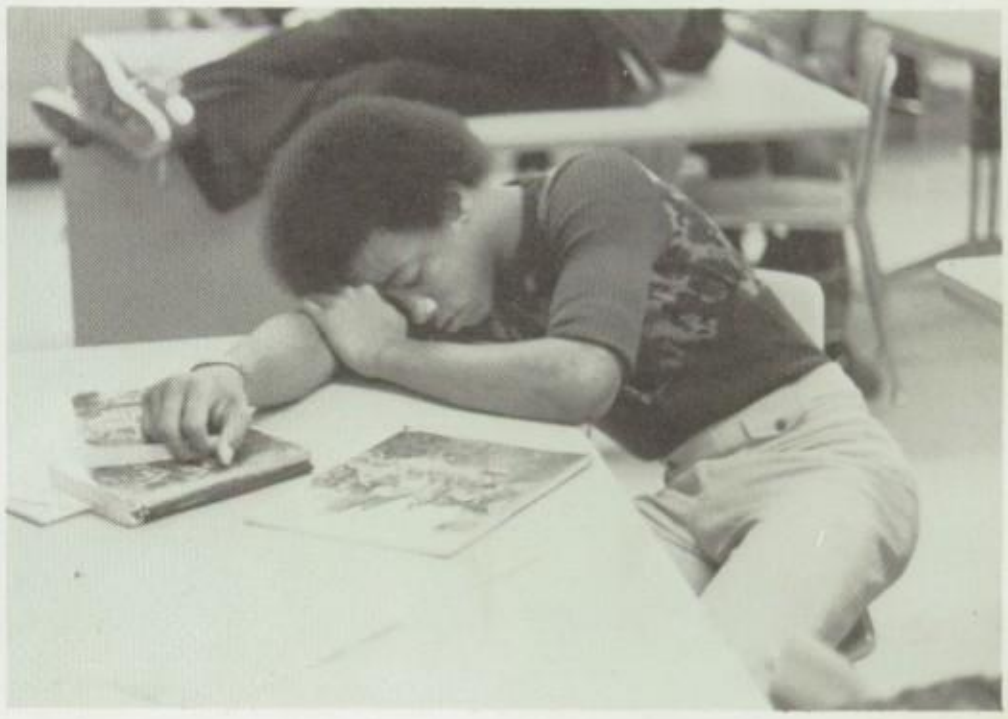


Some students are interested in Learning.

Classroom student's minds are not always on Teacher.

Interpersonal Dynamics may be a successful class.

Would you believe it? All these books.



I tried, but something made me go to sleep.

Deloris Johnson is very interested in Reading.

The Social Studies department was led by Frank Mishina. Two practical courses were introduced: Interpersonal Dynamics and an experimental class in Consumer Economics. The latter course dealt with consumer buying and the protection offered by consumer protection laws.

Interpersonal Dynamics taught by Ralph Arellano was designed to increase a student's knowledge of his own needs, his behavior patterns and the skills for successful interaction with other people.

The content of this class included values and clarification, and development of self concept communication skills with the emphasis on group dynamics. The class sponsored a Karate Do demonstration. The Student Government which is also a part of the Social Studies department has a new sponsor who is Randall Hodges.

Other popular classes included Black America, Psychology and Human Relations.

Ms. Clack loves to get to the point of the matter when it comes down to History.

Reggie Wallace is very determined to learn his subject.

History Remembers Famous People

Library Has Good Information

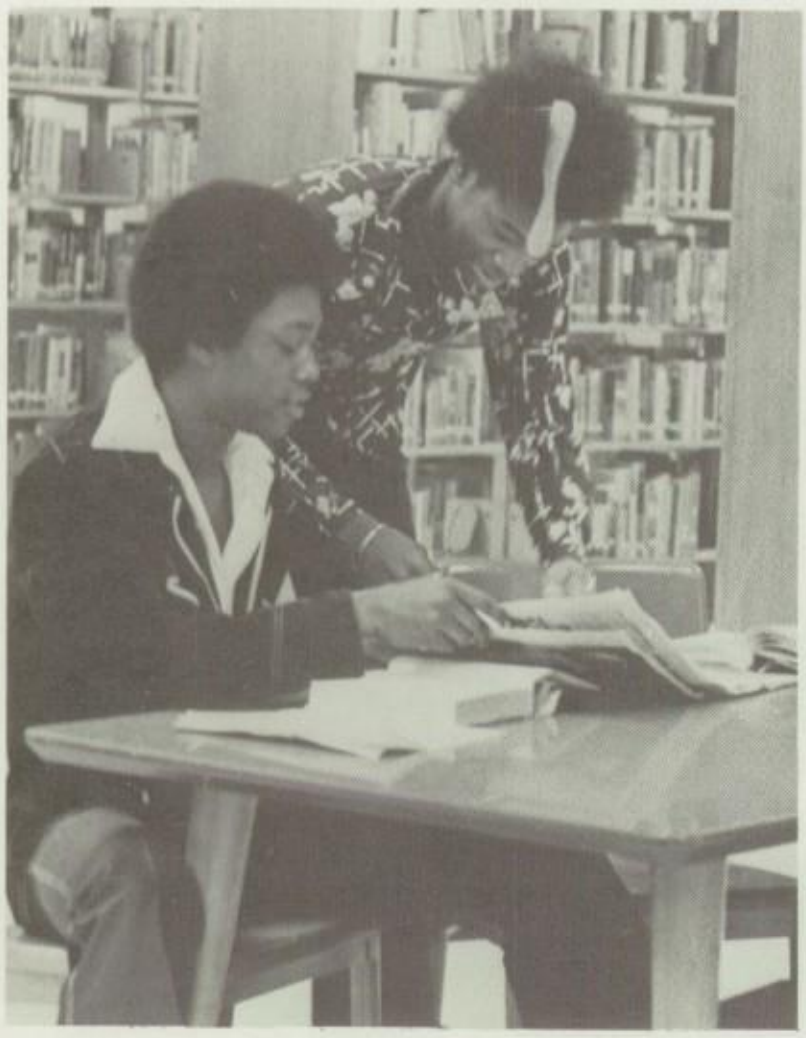
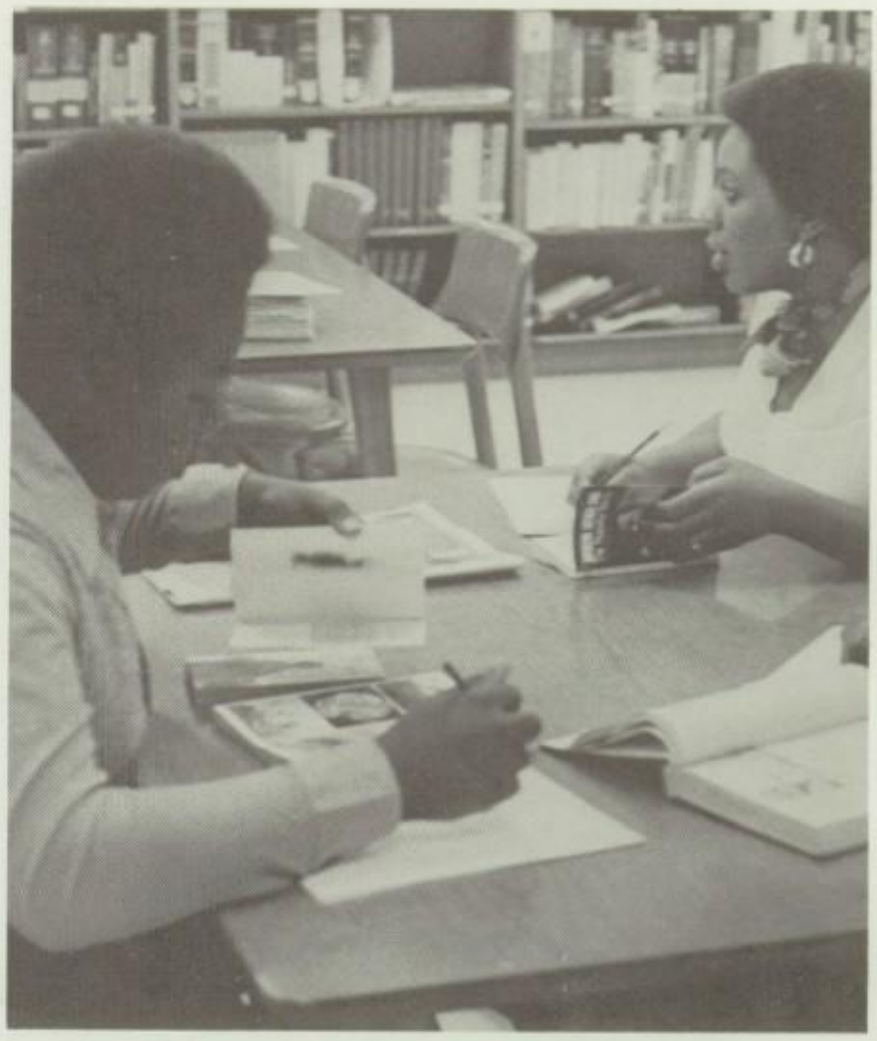
The library was handled efficiently by Phyllis Duvall and Elizabeth Barnhart. Northwestern library provided a pleasant, cheerful area for students to browse, study and glean new information. Many new paperback books were added this year to the library. Available to the students were an abundance of current periodicals. Conference rooms for group study, research and drama gave students an opportunity to work together without disturbing others.

Copy machines, movie projecters and tape recorders were available for teacher's use.

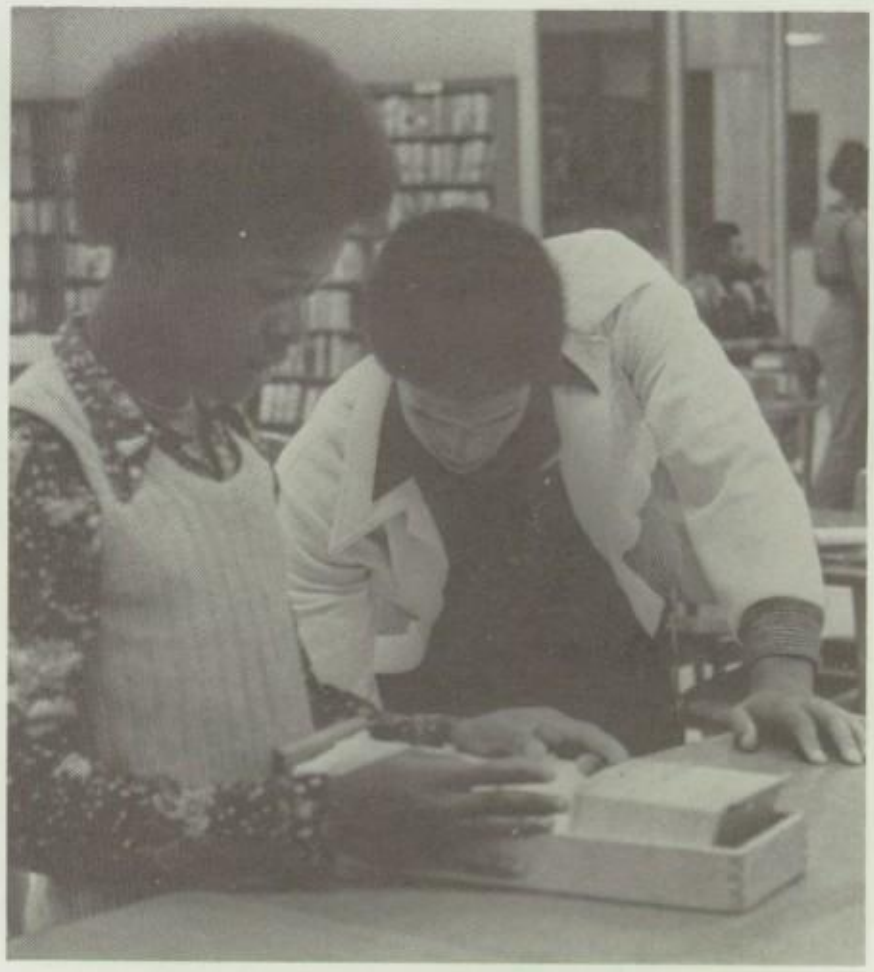


N.W. students look for one of fourteen thousand books in library.

Greg Martin must be doing research for one of his classes.



Students find pleasure in what is to be found in library.



Carl Brocks and Andre Hennie check catalogue for a good book.

Mrs. Mildred Fisher and Charles Clements discuss plans for future.

Mildred Fisher was counselor for the Special Education. Through the use of films, visual aids and listening stations in such areas as English, mathematics and social studies, students were encouraged to reach their potential. Sandra Riddell was a cheerful addition to the department.

Verna Nesbit is very serious about doing classwork.

Teaching Is Special In Sp. Ed.

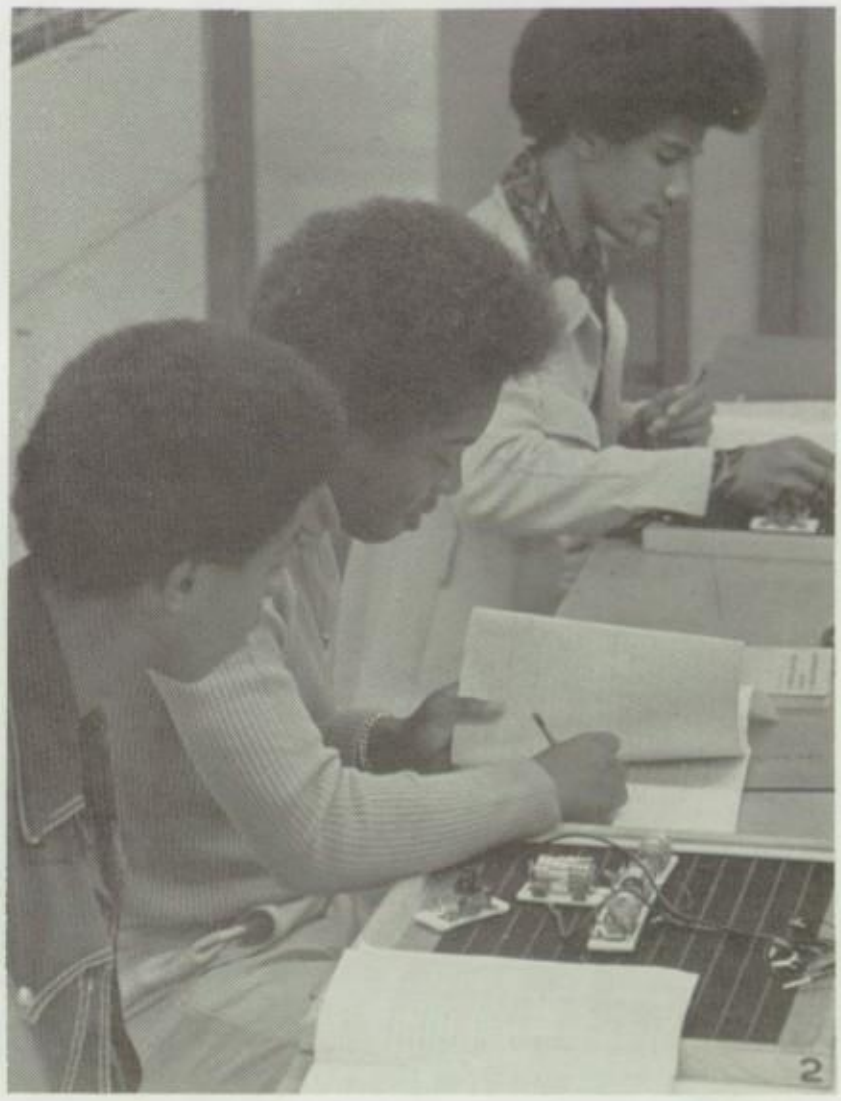
Mrs. Cato looks on as Howard Franklin does classwork.

Mrs. King of Sp. Ed. enjoys grading papers of her students.

Shared Time is a vocationally oriented program in which students from all four high schools are given an opportunity. Northwestern offers programs in four areas: Health Occupation, Electronics, Plant Building Maintenance, and Accounting and Computing. Lois Harning, Percy Fry, Al Gricius are teaching and participating in this program.

Kathy Newton seems as if she's having problems, but she isn't.

Students take turns fixing each other in bed.



Anthony and David can do it right. I wish I could work it.

Hey, could you show me how to do that? I can't catch on.

SharedTime Keeps Students Busy

Hey, Dennis, where is the football game this week? Bay Bay. You need to be doing your work, not asking about the football game.

Above: Darnell, didn't you stick the plug in the wrong socket?

Right: Kathy Newton uses new machine.

Mr. Jay Archer led the Business department. The Cooperative training program in the Business department offered the students an opportunity to earn while they learn. Students were removed from the five-day classroom and introduced to the world of business, preparing them for on-the-job training. Advantages of this program included the establishment of good employment habits and attitudes, as well as a basic understanding of job responsibilities.

The school store was the most exciting innovation of Northwestern's Coop program. It was under the direction of David Hedges. The students selected items to be sold as well as selling the merchandise. The store was open before and after school.

Other courses in the Business department were: Retail Sales, Shorthand, Office Practice, Business Math and Marketing.

This is kind of hard.

Business And Coop, Teach Skills

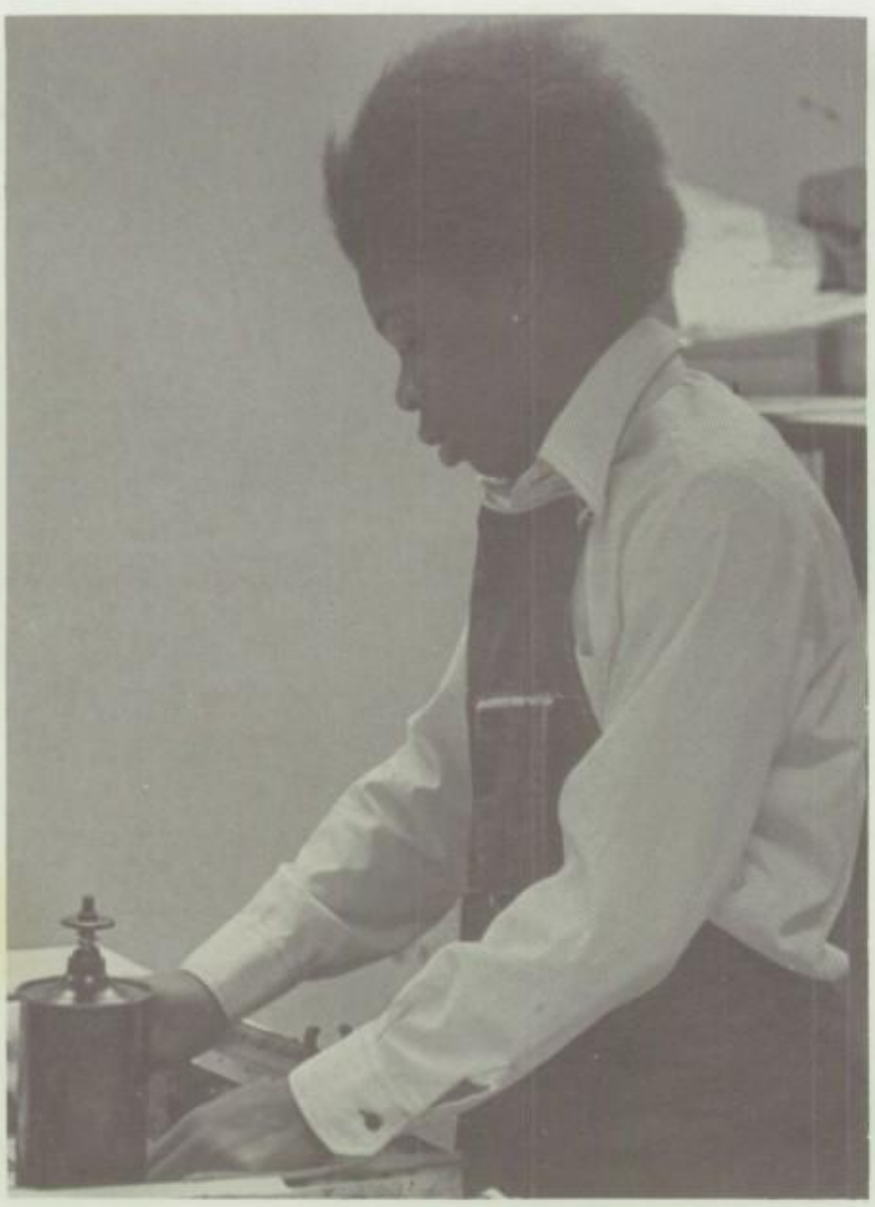
Hey, I did it?

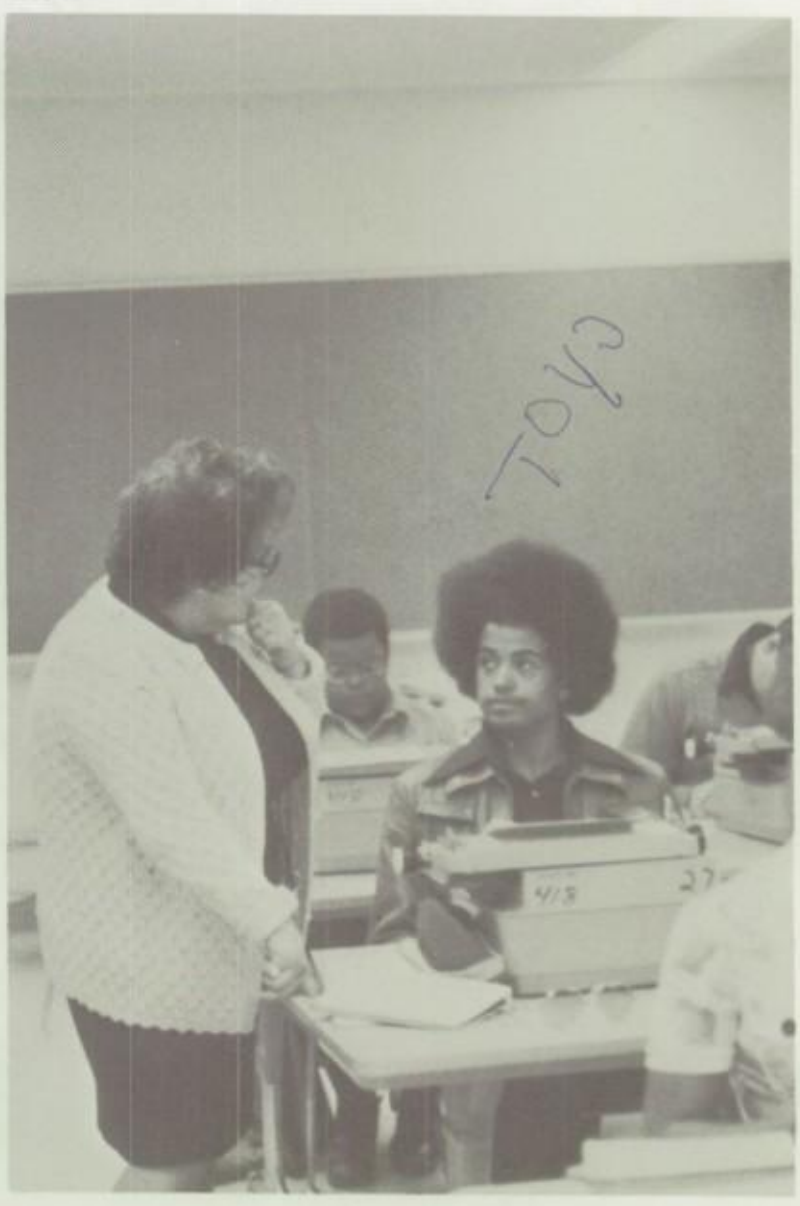
Now we understand.

You find it? Me neither.

Business is our game.



I've been on this for the longest.

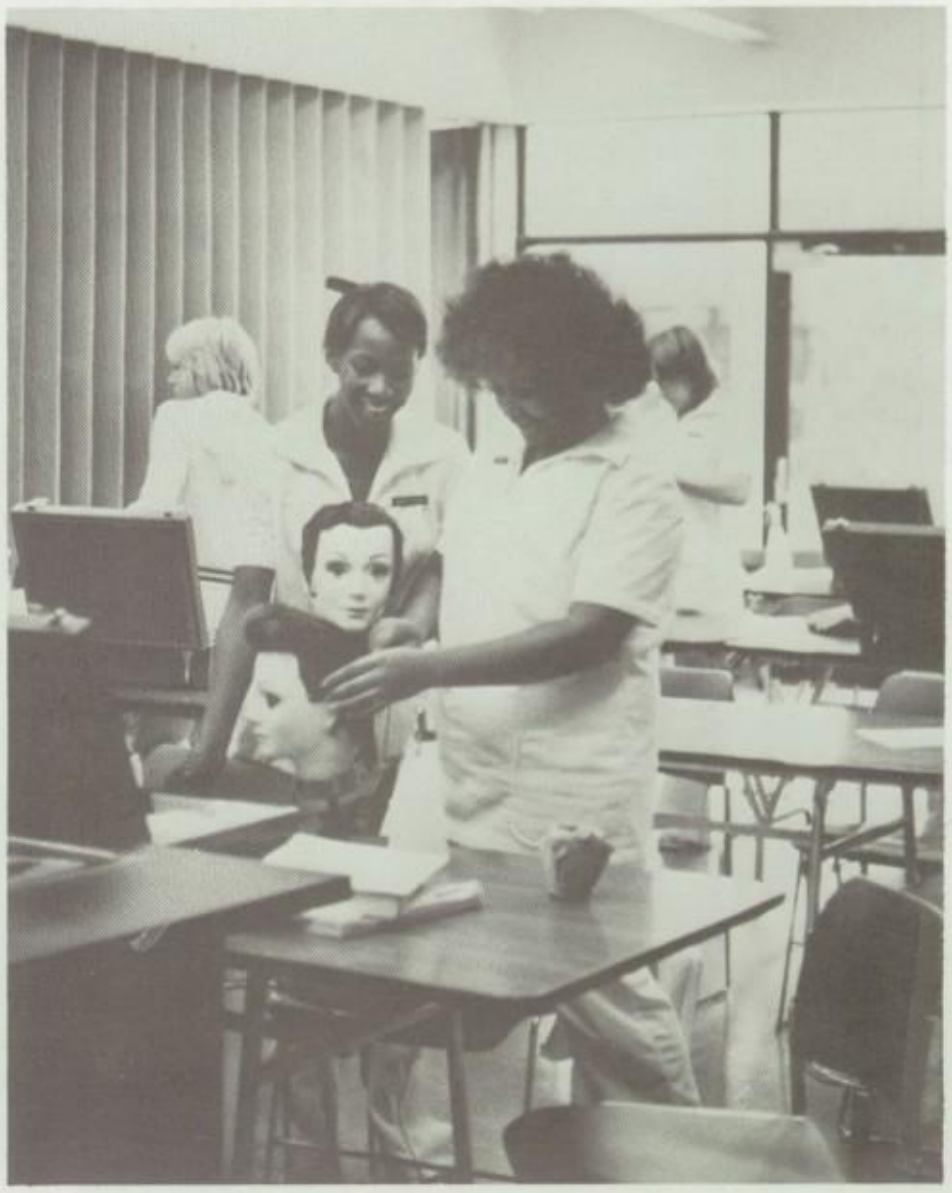


Are you sure?

The Skill Center offered many occupational skills. Among them were; mechanical data processing, photography, electrical occupations, graphic arts, as well as the health courses which provided on-the-job training in hospitals.

The chairman coordinator was Mr. John Crouch.

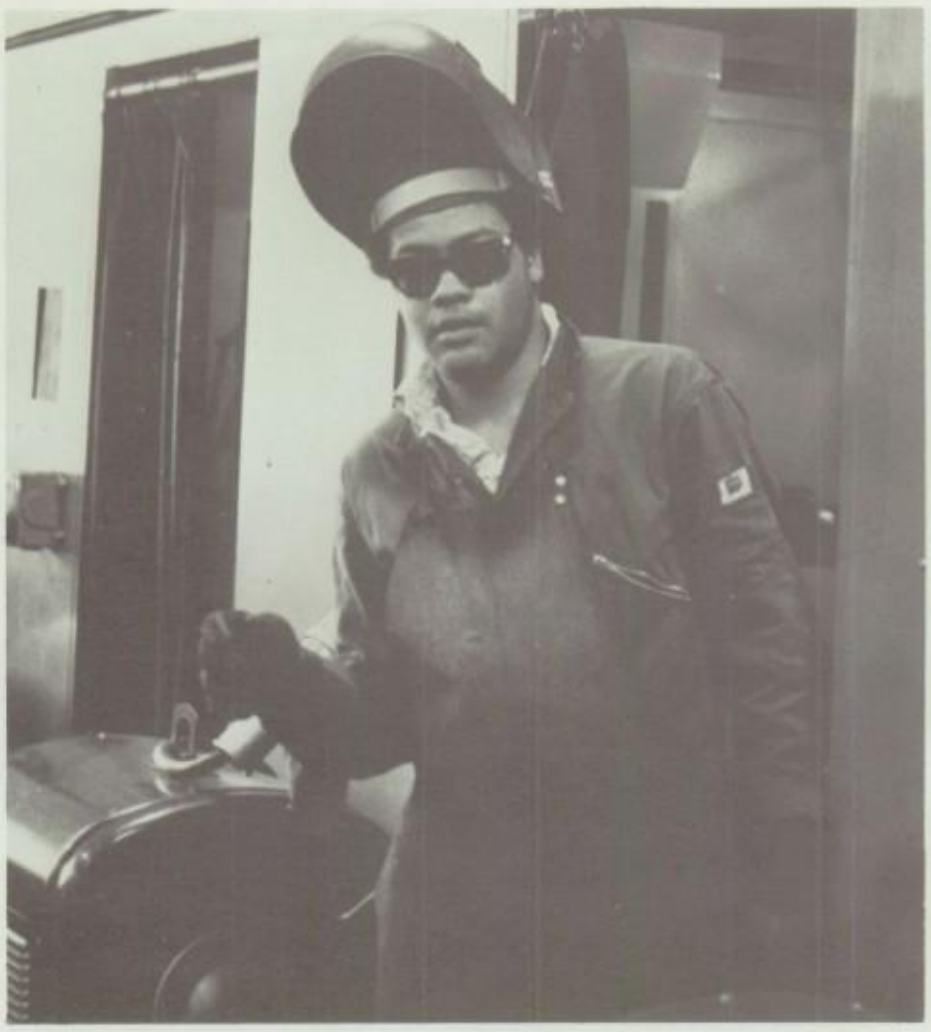
Diane Brandon washes her hair in cosmetology.



Jeanett Steward and Linda Jones style hair on a wig mold.

Kerry Jarrett seems to be using his skill.

Inez Mitchell, Deborah Givens watch Merri Duncan.



Even Roy Field needs a rest from work sometimes.

Therese Western and Deanna Harris fix up a bouquet of flowers.

Skill Center Offers NoPlay Time

Ricky Urbine, Randy Rhodes, Pat Ruggerillo check the motor.

Skill Center group seems interested in their work.

Drivers' Ed. Permits No Speeding

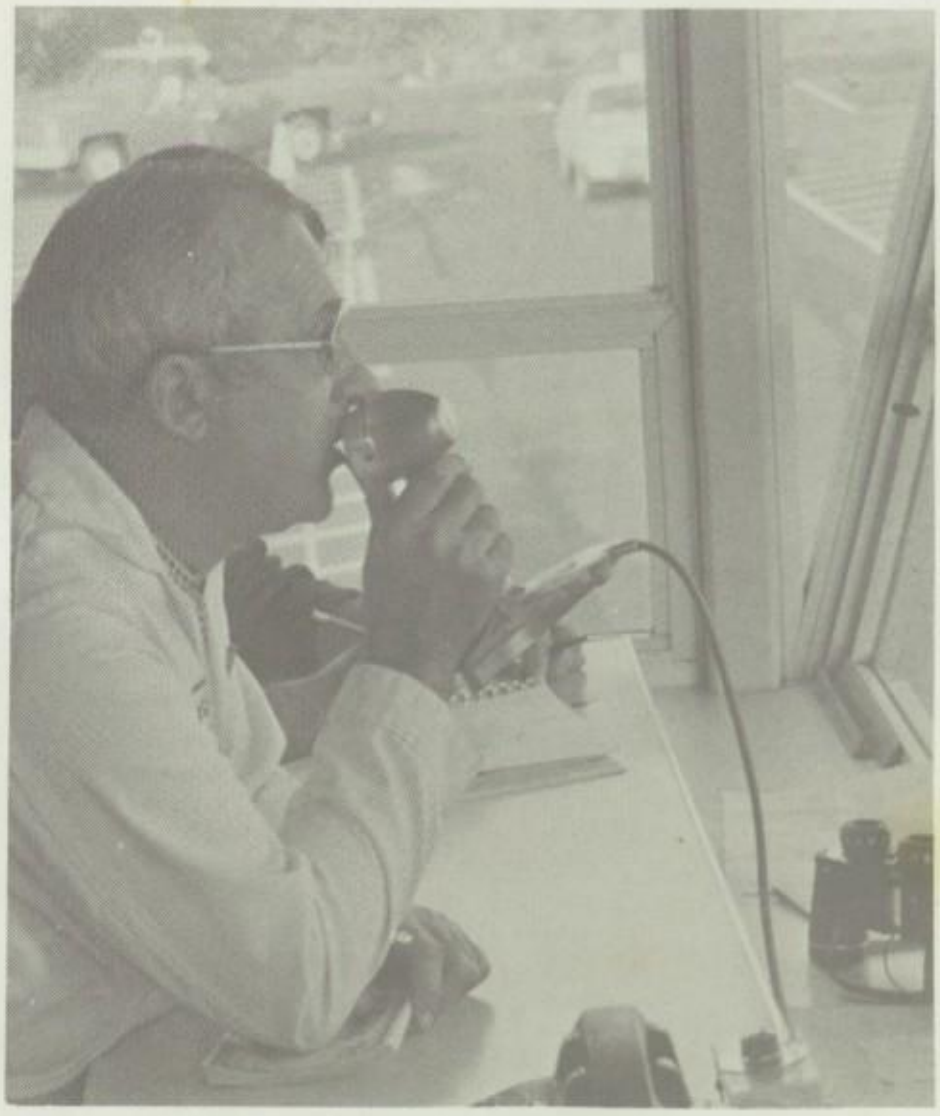
Andrew Corsi was chairman of the Drivers Education and Personal Security Education program. These two courses are required for graduation. Students were taught the correct way to drive a car by instructors, Donald Callis and Andrew Corsi.

Emergency health care, drug, civil defense and first aid were taught in P.S.E.

At the end of the day not many cones are left standing on the Drivers Range.

Every time Drivers Ed. students drive, they use a brand new Buick or Chevrolet.

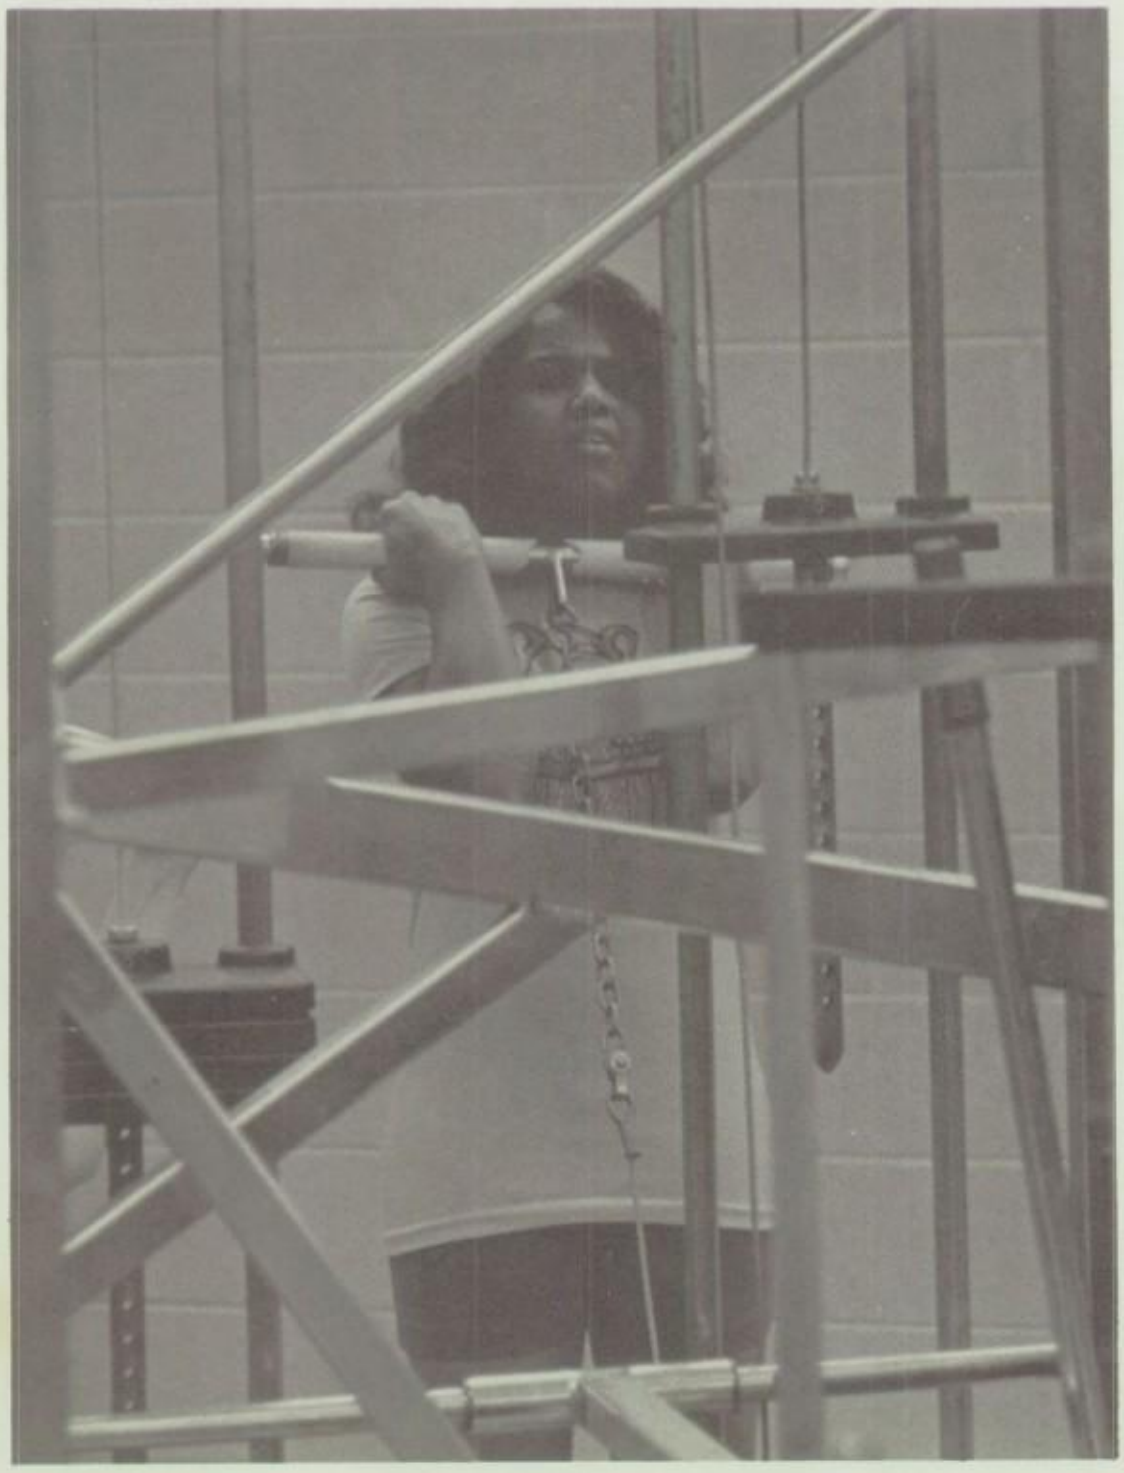
Mr. Bill Williams keeps a written record of all driving mistakes.



"I saw that car 12, stop! That was a red light you just went through!"

"By the way, what's this supposed to do for me? . . . tighten muscles or lose weight."

Randall Hodges was the chairman of the Physical Education Department. Physical Education is designed to develop NW's students physically, emotionally and socially. Regular curriculum included gymnastics, tennis, swimming and volleyball. Good sportsmanship and team spirit also are goals of the physical fitness program. Special classes for physically handicapped students are offered.



Do today's women really need all those muscles? Of course, when you want to keep your man in line.

Jean Tipton finds out that volleyball is an action-filled sport.

That's another point for team one or was that team two?

These plays were, "Death of a Teenager," which showed the death of a 15 year old girl from an overdose of heroin. She was troubled by problems at home and at school. "Hearts and Hands" the setting was on a train in the gay 90's. "The Open Window," involved a girl with a vivid imagination. "Who's On First" was a comedy play. The plays were class projects. The students took part in directing, set design, costumes, make-up, stage lighting and props, sound effects and music. The students expressed different emotions and comedy in their performances. # S.S.C. Moves To A New Location

Do you really mean that?

That's serious, you know.

D. Morgan and J. Boylston chat a little.

But why is it that way?

The Student Service Center offered information, counseling workshops and a group of trained peer listeners. Room 300 is the new location for the S.S.C. The new room has two private conference rooms where students can have a private and confidential counseling session with an adult or student trained in active listening and other communication skills. In addition, the large Rap room is divided into two areas for larger group raps.

This year the S.S.C. staff took part in empathy training, transactional analysis training, a workshop in basic alcoholism therapy and pregnancy counseling, basic verbal and nonverbal communications and values clarification. Each student staff member had about thirty hours of training.

This year the staff sold oranges and macrame jewelry to raise money for furniture and carpeting for the "Center". They planned a series of workshops for the spring and hope to go to the state conference for Student Service Centers in the summer of '76.
